

HIGHWAYMEN NEAR TOWN.

A Gang Believed to be Near
La Belle Park.—John
Johnson Assaulted
by Them.

Several Others Have at Different Times Been Attacked in Daytime and at Night.

The fact that John Johnson, colored, who is marketeer for Mr. Tom Boswell, of the county, had been badly injured near the intersection of the Broadway road and the La Belle park car line track, was published exclusively in yesterday's Sun.

Since yesterday sensational developments have been in the case, indicating that there is a regular band of highway robbers in the West End. Johnson was able to give full particulars this morning when Dr. J. G. Brooks went out to dress his injuries.

Day before yesterday while driving home from market, he deserted five men coming towards him from the direction of the new fair ground. He had just crossed the street car track, and it was midday. Three of the men turned and dispersed, while two came towards him. They were all five, he says, dressed in snuff-colored clothes, wore light bicycle caps and tan shoes. They were typical negro dudes.

Two approached him and asked him if he had any apples. He replied that he did not, whereupon one seized him, while the other struck him a violent blow on the back of the head.

He remembers nothing more. Some time afterward his horse walked up to a little cabin, occupied by a colored man named Fletcher, and the latter at once advised that something was wrong. He made a detour of the locality, and found Johnson dragging a broken leg along the road, in a dazed and semi-conscious condition. He could give no account of how he was hurt, and it was supposed he had fallen under the wagon.

He was robbed of one dollar in money, but forty cents in another pocket was not found. He does not know whether they broke his leg in pulling him out of the wagon or whether the vehicle ran over him after he had fallen.

Since the bold assault made upon him, it had been learned that Chas. Thomas, another colored man living in the neighborhood, was held up only the day before, but contrived to bluff the highwaymen by defying them with a club.

Several nights ago Major Moss gave a possum supper at his home in Arcadia, and Circuit Clerk J. W. Fisher and Dr. P. H. Stewart were among the guests. As they were returning home something in the road near the old toll gate frightened the horse, causing it to shy and run so fast that whoever it was could not catch the buggy. Dr. Stewart is now satisfied that it was the same gang. Another incident tending towards the same conclusion is the assault made on Mr. Culver, the insurance agent, several nights ago while returning to the city from a spin out the Broadway road with a young lady. They had been on a visit to friends, and opposite the old La Belle park station Mr. Culver was struck and knocked off. The young lady rode on to the grocery a short distance below, gave the alarm and probably saved Mr. Culver from being robbed.

The people of the locality are confident there are highwaymen there, and are of the opinion that they make their headquarters about the new fair grounds and perhaps spend some of their time shooting craps.

THEY WILL GO FREE.

American Schooner Competitor's
Crew Will Be Pardoned.

Havana, Nov. 13.—Dispatches received from Madrid confirmed the previous reports to the effect that the prisoners captured on board the American schooner Competitor, in April 1896, will be included in the general amnesty decree soon to be issued.

The second trial by court martial of the Competitor's crew was to have begun on Monday last, but was postponed on account of the sickness of the President of the court.

TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED.

Hawaiian Annexation Is Now
Assured as Shown by Poll.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Ratification of the Hawaiian annexation treaty by the United States Senate is assured. The administration has made a poll of that body, and President McKinley is satisfied that more than two-thirds of the senators will vote for ratification.

When the treaty was submitted to the Senate on June 16, last, it was stated that fifty-seven senators could be depended upon to vote in favor of the instrument. Eleven senators were given as doubtful, and twenty-one as opposed to ratification. The administration has ascertained the views of the men who were then in doubt, and President McKinley is now depending on sixty senators for the treaty, with prospects of the addition of several votes to this number.

The most potent opposition will come from sugar interests. Pacific coast influence is divided, and while most of the senators from that section are in favor of the treaty, Senator White, of California, is expected to lead the opposition to it in the Senate.

RECIPROCITY TREATY

To be Arranged Between the United States and Canada.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Definite arrangements have been made for taking up the subject of a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada, and to this end meetings have been fixed between the Hon. John W. Kasson, who is specially delegated by President McKinley to conduct the reciprocity negotiations, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, and Sir Louis Davies, minister of marine. This is the result of the long and friendly conference held yesterday between Secretary Sherman and Sir Wilfrid. The meeting will be held during the present visit of the Canadian officials.

A POST-EPIDEMIC CRUSADE.

One Begun to Prevent Recurrence of Yellow Fever
Next Year.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Now that the yellow fever epidemic in this country has been brought practically to an end by the appearance of cold weather, the Marine Hospital Service is preparing to begin a post-epidemic crusade for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of the contagion next year. The officials of the bureau will co-operate with the health authorities of the various States affected in conducting a thorough disinfection of the districts in which the fever gained a foothold. The cleansing of all infected cities will be urged, and each house in which there was a case of fever will be thoroughly fumigated. It is believed that by pursuing this course the country can be protected against another yellow fever epidemic in 1898.

SATURDAY, NOV. 13, 1897.

Last year the cotton mills of the North consumed 1,862,565 bales of cotton and the Southern mills 1,024,482 bales, and yet the South's possibilities in the manufacturing line have barely got a good start.

The railroads are employing 100,000 more men than at this time last year. The recent statement issued by the Illinois Central shows that it spent $436,148 more for operating expenses during September of this year than in September of last year. This may be "Republican luck," but the whole country is enjoying it.

The twelve counties in Ohio in which Mr. Bryan made speeches in the campaign just ended gave 997 more Republican majority than in 1896. Considering that Mr. Bryan ostentatiously announced that he "came to bury Hanna, not to praise him," this result is rather amusing—to everybody except Mr. Bryan.

The Citizens Union of Seth Low party, at the last election, elected enough members of the New York Legislature from Greater New York to hold the balance of power. Without their aid no Republican legislation can take place. These members of the legislature have already held a meeting and propose to stand together against the Regular or Platt Republicans. There is evidently some fun ahead in Albany this winter.

The receipts from the new tariff law now show an increase over the receipts of the Wilson law at a corresponding date last year. The Treasury officials expect by the first of the year that the receipts will be sufficient to meet current expenses of the government. This will be a novel experience to such clerks as have been in the Treasury Department only since the beginning of Cleveland's last administration.

"In spite of less active trade during October in most sections of the country, and the virtual stoppage of business at the South as a result of the yellow fever scares and quarantines, the aggregate total for that month exceeded even September's immense total, and marks the heaviest month's total since January, 1893. This result was accomplished, too, with the same number of business days in the month as in September."—Bradstreet's.

The great business improvement which the country has seen since last July, is due largely to the feeling among merchants and business men that the new tariff will furnish both protection and revenue sufficient to run the Government. This simple restoration of confidence has brought forth millions of dollars and given employment to thousands of hands at improved wages. It has caused unused chimneys to pour forth black smoke and idle wheels to revolve merrily. The new tariff is in operation, and its revenues are constantly increasing month by month and week by week. Yet it is to be expected the Democrats will say that the Dingley law has nothing to do with the improvement.

The Democracy is rapidly losing its grip on the South. Look at the Senate of the United States. Maryland is now to have two Republican Senators; West Virginia has one and is likely to have another; Kentucky has one Republican and one other who refuses to co-operate with the Democrats on the currency question; Louisiana has one Democrat refusing to join with his party on the tariff; South Carolina has one and Georgia two who kicked over the traces on the tariff; North Carolina has no Democratic representative, one of her Senators being a Republican and the other a Populist; one Texas Democratic Senator refuses to support free silver. In fact, the sum of southern Senators who follow time-honored Democratic doctrines is becoming extremely small.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, Secretary of State for the Colonies, who was installed last Wednesday as Lord Rector of Glasgow University, in a recent speech contrasted municipal institutions in Great Britain with those in the United States. He said that in New York the government of three millions of people had been handed over for four years to "a party whose object is avowedly to get the greatest amount of spoil." The success of the British system and the failure of the American, he continued, were to be found in the different ways in which officials were treated. It was necessary, in order to have the best possible officials, that they should be "irremovable, except for gross proved offenses"; they must be "selected absolutely without regard to their political opinions," and must be "paid the market price for their services."

SENATOR CHANDLER, of New Hampshire, has written a letter to the Washington Post, admonishing the Republican party that it is its duty and its only method of salvation to renew its declaration of bimetalism and fight for it until it is secured. This is the third letter of Mr. Chandler on this subject, the others having been written in August. These letters have made Senator Chandler the object of great veneration by the Bryan Democracy. It is a well known fact that no prominent Republican member of congress has been the butt of so much ridicule by the Democracy during the past ten or fifteen years as this same Senator Chandler, who now becomes a veritable sage in the eyes of the silverite.

The Senator makes the assertion that in 1900 "the silver monometallists will then take possession of all branches of the national government and a free coinage bill, with silver made legal tender for all debts, public and private, domestic and foreign, will pass both houses of congress and be signed by President Bryan."

The old Senator has been in his dotage for several years. This is not the first time that he has startled his associates by his peculiar views, but it is the first time his utterances have not been greeted with jeers and ridicule by the Democratic press. It is the privilege of every man to change his opinions, and the fact that Senator Chandler has availed himself of that privilege does not prove anything.

In looking over their tremendous stock Noah's Ark have found that they need room for their Christmas goods and will start a big unloading sale Monday and Tuesday next. Steel Enamelled Ware will be sold cheap as tinware on Monday, and on Tuesday all tinware, Japanese and galvanized ware, together with wood-ware, will be sold at less than cost.

Society & Gossip.

Where are you going, my pretty maid, with microscope in hand? I am going to find the German Club. They are lost out, on the sand.

Dancing, as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever will be, classed as number one in the category of fashionable pleasures. Even though reports say waltzing is not rigidly proper this season, all is not lost. Have we not the happy faculty of possessing the knowledge of other dances just as warm, and still keep our place at the top round of the ladder of fashion? Yes, verily! So "on with the dance."

When you look for the bewilderingments of the witcheries which used to be, you look in vain. In the days gone by there were more men and money, or more money and more men, than now. Besides receptions, private dances, etc., there were two dancing clubs. Life was then assuaged by existence. From early morn until late at night you never had a minute. The process of robbing and disrobing was quasi continuous. It made your head swim. The gayety was then that of a fancy ball. 'Tis now that of a child's party. Such is the salubrity of this season that a fellow has no hesitation in trusting his best girl out of his sight, especially if he wants to be alone with his second best. However, we are simple patience on a monument waiting on the eclipse, that we trust will be transient, and as the season advances the days will grow less vacant and the nights less opaque.

We are treated to the announcement of the reorganization of the Cotillion Club one moment, to be let down to the prosaic reality of a denial the next. A chronicle such as this is a blow to the lovers of the dance. As the Cotillion Club, with its aristocratic members and notably brilliant entertainments still shine in their memory, as the bright stars that deck nights sable curtain. The memory of joy is a sadness in this instance, and as we now quietly spend our evenings resting in luxuriously cushioned chairs, passing the joys of by gone days in review, we wonder if history will not repeat itself, and give us back the Cotillion Club of 96.

The Matinee Cotillion Club met with Miss Pauline Houston on Fourth St. Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. English won first prize, a jeweled hat pin, flageolet. Miss Blanche Bloom, captured the consolation, an acrobatic toy monkey. Mrs. King Brooks, Mrs. Chas. Moequet, Miss Adah Bennett and Miss Joe Bloomfield were the visitors present. The next meeting of the club will be with Miss Elizabeth Segenfelder at the Palmer House, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of Wednesday, the usual day for meeting.

Mrs. William Bradshaw entertained the Magazine Club Wednesday afternoon. Interesting reports from popular Magazines were read by Mrs. Given, Mrs. Robert Phillips, Mrs. John P. Campbell and Mrs. Bradshaw.

The "As You Like It Club" has again changed its name. "The What Next Club" it is to be called, and the young married lady at whose home it meets has the liberty of entertaining in any way her fancy dictates.

Mrs. David Flournoy entertained a small party of friends at cards Wednesday evening at her home on North Seventh street.

One of the best shows of the season was presented Tuesday night, entitled "Captain of the Nonsuch." One character purporting to be the Captain, but in reality a dashing young married man whose only vocation was spending his rich mother-in-law's money and imposing upon the credulity of his devoted young wife, caused a roar of laughter during the entire evening. The writer of this article had the good luck to witness this play, and the pleasure also of sitting directly behind a devoted young couple. In order to have my readers more clearly understand of whom I am speaking, will say that the young man is tall and handsome, being the cynosure of the streets with the air "me lord." The young lady accused him of being as deceitful and as graceful a prevaricator as the young captain in the play. One word brought on another, he telling her she had no edge on him in that respect; she retorting by saying "you had no old thing, you told me, sorry this very night. When I accused you of having taken a drink, you innocently replied that you had only eaten brandy-peaches for supper!" It is suggested to this young couple that controversies of the nature named were better fought to a finish at home, or at rate in a less public place than the opera house.

Monday night the "Twelve Temptations" will be presented at Morton's by an excellent company. Watch all the men who part their hair in the middle (the men with the skating rink for flies under their topknots), stroll to the front seats in the parquette. Bless their old souls they do love shows with lots of pretty girls in them. But their joy will be short lived. There is trouble brewing for them. The ladies have a move on foot to prevent these admirers from occupying the front seats, alleging that the infection of the light shining on their bald heads is injurious to their optics.

Speaking of opera houses, why in the name of common sense can't Paducah, like other up-to-date cities, pass an ordinance prohibiting the wearing of high hats at a place of public amusement. It does my heart good to see that some of the ladies remove their millinery, but they are nearly always visitors. Will eternity toiler and time turn grey before our home girls learn this little bit of opera house etiquette? People go there to see the show, not to play peek-a-boo looking over or around the plunage of tropical birds that adorn the hats. The "silly-pieces" now resemble a small sized straw sticks, or a cart wheel, anyway, and it makes one lose their religion to sit behind them. My dear girls, arrange your coiffure daintily, and when you go to the theater, give other's a chance; there are others, you know. The bald headed men, for instance. Think of the hardships you impose upon them! When the wind is whistling "I'll get your whiskers," and they, just to be polite, raise their hats, bow to you and pass on. So the next show you attend, try this, it will make you feel good, and a friend of those behind you.

There never was a moment that Cupid wasn't in it.

It is rumored that a well known couple, the residence of both being on Seventh street, will wed before the New Year rolls around.

It is also whispered that a couple prominent in Jewish circles, will be as one before the robins nest again.

The cool evenings are making the rooms quite popular, and every day brings an increased attendance. The statistical report for October shows that sixteen hundred and fifty visits were made to the building during the month, thus proving the attractive power of the splendid selection of reading matter, the gymnasium classes and the other departments of work.

Mr. Jeff Herndon, who became so popular as an instructor last season, has taken charge of the classes in the gymnasium, and there is a marked increase in attendance already.
